

PHOENIX AND CHICAGO TALK BY TELEPHONE: THREE MINUTES, $30

Chicago and Phoenix talked to each other for the first time yesterday; actually talked, a clear voice on either end of the line and the experience no more thrilling than that of ordering your groceries over the phone from a store a block away.

Sitting in his residence at 619 North Third street yesterday afternoon, H. W. Kahn of Phoenix carried on a long distance telephone conversation for several minutes with C. C. Wilhelm, sitting in his own chair in Chicago, some thousands of miles away. According to the telephone company, it was the first time long distance conversation has been carried on between Chicago and Phoenix.

The call was put in at Chicago by Mr. Wilhelm. Link by link it was forwarded across the continent to San Francisco, then south and east again to Phoenix. Mr. Kahn answered his telephone at 3 o'clock. Almost at once he found Mr. Wilhelm at the other end of the line. They talked for three minutes without interruption, and with less effort than if they had been talking across the same city. In fact, the conversation across 2,800 miles was easy and highly satisfactory.

However, it is not probable telephone talks between Phoenix and Chicago will become a every-day occurrence. The bill for yesterday's three-minute call amounted to $30.

TWO LOCAL MARKETS HELP H. C. L. FIGHT BY CUTTING PRICES

While Phoenix is wondering about the high cost of living and whether it will be materially reduced, at least two Phoenix meat markets have taken the first step toward a voluntary reduction of prices here by cutting their own until they are far below those at other markets.

Attention to this fact was called yesterday by Judge J. H. Langston, assistant federal district attorney here. Judge Langston, with federal, state and county officials, has been working for several weeks on the high cost of living, but he regards the action of the two Phoenix markets as one of the best possible influences toward bringing about lower prices.

Indian Girl Secures License to Marry the Brave of Her Choice

Fearing competition during the first rush of the leap year, a native daughter appeared before the marriage license clerk yesterday and secured a license, stating she did not know whether there would be a wedding, but that she was willing. The young woman, who gave her age as 30, is Jokigia Kia, a pretty Apache, who says that she has been married before and is willing to try again. The man of her choice is Frank Nipple, 32, a member of the same tribe. Both live in McDowell. Jokigia came to the court house unaccompanied and waited five hours for an interpreter. She said that she was very anxious to marry Frank, but was not at all sure he would accept her. She is an unusually attractive Indian and wears quantities of blue and white beads about her throat and arms. Nipple's jewelry is also worn by the would-be bride, who affects the bright colors popular with her race.

Both the markets which are operating on lower prices than their competitors happen to be located on Adams street. At one according to Judge Langston's information, round, loin, and T-bone steaks are selling at 30 cents a pound. The average price for round is slightly higher, but loin steaks are selling at 40 cents a pound, and T-bone at 45 cents elsewhere.

Similar cuts in the price of other meats have been made by both markets, which are the only two as yet found that have voluntarily aided in reducing living costs. One or two grocery stores are also said to have cut their prices voluntarily.

"Voluntary reductions of prices, especially if they are given publicly, will have a great effect in helping to reduce the high cost of living," Judge Langston said yesterday. "And places that voluntarily reduce their prices deserve the business."

In which every person who maintains a home in Phoenix will agree.

Maximilian Harden says the Germans think the former crown prince pretty. That's nothing. They thought the kaiser a strategist.

The kaiser's government had its faults, but it didn't dispose of all domestic problems by appointing a committee to investigate.

MEXICANS HOLD CELEBRATION OF INDEPENDENCE

Barbecue and Sports Are Followed by Music and Program on Which Gov.
Campbell and Others Are Speakers

With addresses by Governor Thomas E. Campbell, Attorney General Wiley E. Jones, Judge Stanford and the leading Mexican citizens of Phoenix, the Mexican population staged an impressive celebration at Twentieth and Van Buren street yesterday in observance of the anniversary of Mexican independence. The celebration, which lasted most of the day, was marked by sincerity and good order, and was attended by a crowd estimated at from 500 to 1,000.

Liberty, the relations between the United States and Mexico and problems confronting the Mexican people were dealt with by Governor Campbell and the other speakers. In addition to the very good speaking program, the celebration included sports and a barbecue and terminated with a grand dance last night.

Yaqui Indians Dance.
The day began yesterday with the unique pascolas dance by a band of Yaqui Indians from Guadalupe. It was followed by the barbecue, after which games and sports were held. The celebration began with a "Star Spangled Banner," and opened with an impressive address by Attorney General Wiley E. Jones, Dr. A. D. Viscarra acted as chairman of the day.

Judge Stanford of the county court, then spoke on independence, mentioning highly Mexico's final independence from Spain in 1810-1821. Touching upon the present Mexican situation, the speaker said there has been some unrest, created by local causes, but at heart the American people desire to be friendly with Mexico. He also laid stress on Americanization, and the opportunities offered to Mexicans and the help America can derive from the Mexican people. He was greeted with applause.

One of the most impressive speeches of the day was made by Pastor V. Moreno, who was received enthusiastically. He spoke on a variety of topics, including historical incidents and a brief sketch of Hidalgo, the leader of the Mexican war for independence.

Tells Mexico's Needs.

Mexico needs good schools such as we have here, said the pastor, and needs unselfish men to guide the nation. He pointed out the need of respect for established government and order, and added that Mexicans who come here to remain should make homes and become citizens, while those who return should take back with them the good qualities they have found here.

C. C. Cota, in an address, gave some vivid recollections of Mexico. He pictured Mexico as a future cornucopia for this country, and told of the need of culture in the Latin country. He declared the religion of Christ would bring about the desired changes in Mexico.

Julio Mancillas spoke as the representative of the Liga Protectora Latina, under whose auspices the meeting was held, and outlined the aims and accomplishments of the society. He was followed by several other volunteer speakers, after which the American and Mexican national anthems were given.

Governor Campbell Speaks.

Governor Campbell was unable to make his address until last night. He appeared much pleased with the playing of the national airs of the two countries, and remarked in his address that the American anthem indicates that the very school children are given the American ideals.

Liberty is the ideal of the whole world now, said the governor, who said that were it not for the present temporary unrest America and Mexico would be on good terms, which, he said, will come about as soon as peace and order are restored. He spoke highly of naturalization, and said he thought most of his hearers who were not native born were naturalized.

The governor told his listeners of the opportunities Mexicans can find here by industry, and cited the governor of New Mexico as an example of the opportunities that may await a Mexican citizen of this country. He expressed sympathy for the Spanish-American league, and expressed admiration for the dancing.

The celebration closed with a large dancing party, which continued until early this morning.

NEW FARM COURSES AT THE HIGH SCHOOL

Two new courses, agricultural arithmetic and farm mechanics, have been added to the agricultural department of the local high school this year. The addition of these to the subjects of agronomy and animal husbandry previously taught will make one of the strongest agricultural courses in the state.

Mr. Holsinger, a former student of the Phoenix high school and a graduate of the University of Arizona, who recently has been elected a member of the Phoenix faculty, will have charge of the farm mechanics class. It is anticipated that there will be a large enrollment in this new subject. The agricultural arithmetic, agronomy and animal husbandry classes will be taught by Mr. Johnson, head of the department.

Students this year have the privilege of electing any agricultural subject for credits in other courses, or they may take a course majoring entirely with agricultural studies for high school diploma.

If we don't believe in militarism, why is it that we go into Mexico to catch offenders against our army and navy and merely write notes when ranchers are killed?

"LEAVE THE MAID AND TAKE OUR GOLD"

(Kansas City Star.)

Chicago—Anna knocked at the back door of a North Side apartment at noon, clutching a "want ad" page in a strong, red hand.

"You want a maid?" she asked Mrs. Edward Kahn, who lives there.

"Yes," Mrs. Kahn said, a little breathless at this unexpected good fortune. "won't you come in?"

"Yes, ma'am. Thank you, ma'am," Mrs. Kahn gasped. "Ma'am from a maid in these times. And such a good looking maid—neat, strong and without a trace of insolence."

"Would you object to doing a little laundry?"

"Oh, no, ma'am. All the laundry, ma'am. I cook, sew, scrub—anything." Mrs. Kahn pinched herself. Then she hazarded:

"Er—how much, ah—"

"Oh, $3, maybe. I don't care. You say, I like this place. I just want a nice home."

In five minutes Anna the Amazing was at work.

Such a dinner it was.

The dinner she prepared was so good that Mr. Kahn could not withhold comment. Such soup! And the roast! To say nothing of that perfect pie!

"Where did you get her?" he asked. "Oh, Edward," Mrs. Kahn sighed, "she just came—straight from heaven. I figured there must be a catch somewhere, but I can't guess what it is."

Kahn beamed. Maidless days had been wearing.

"Let's celebrate and go to a movie," he suggested.

Mrs. Kahn went. Then she found the "catch."

What She Found at Home.

"When I came home," she told a police sergeant, "all the silverware was gone and three of my best gowns and—"

"Yes, yes, I know," said the sergeant. "You're about the tenth person that woman has stung in this neighborhood. We've been looking for her for a month. If we catch her we'll send her up—"

"Oh, please don't punish her," Mrs. Kahn exclaimed. "Just send her back to me. If you knew how hard maids are to find, and Anna was so good."

"That," said the sergeant wearily, "is what they all say. I'll add your name to our waiting list if you want, but there are nine ahead of you. They all want Anna back."

"TAKE SPANISH" SAYS PRESIDENT OF PERU

(Cincinnati Inquirer.)

The president of Peru urges the people of the United States to encourage the teaching of Spanish in the public schools. He points out that common interests and union of progress should distinguish the two Americas.

He states that Peruvian children are being taught French and English in order to direct their thoughts toward the aims and ideals of the nations using those languages.

The practical mind will readily admit that a knowledge of the Spanish language, the habits and customs of the people of the Southern republics, would prove a mighty influence in bringing the two American peoples together in bonds of mutual sentimental and commercial relationship. It has long been the dream of many souls that all the Americans will one day be united under one flag. However, that may be, it is sensible if we would be on the best terms with our neighbors, that we should be able to understand each other through the medium of their speech.

Spanish is the tongue of more than 60 million people in the Western Hemisphere. The future of these people and our own is inextricably interwoven. If we are to enjoy peace, prosperity and mutual understanding with the people
